May 23, 2023

Recipe information

TOTAL TIME 40 minutes

YIELD 6–8 servings

Ingredients

- Vegetable oil (for grilling)
- 1 2¾–3-lb. whole skin-on side salmon
- 1–2 Tbsp. plus ⅓ cup extra-virgin olive oil, plus more for drizzling
- Kosher salt
- 1 large jalapeño, ribs and seeds removed, finely chopped
- 3 garlic cloves, finely grated
- 1 cup coarsely chopped parsley
- ¾ cup coarsely chopped unsalted roasted almonds
- ¼ cup fresh lemon juice
- ½ tsp. ground cumin
- Freshly ground pepper
- 4 poblano chiles, halved, ribs and seeds removed
- 1 lemon, halved

Preparation

Step 1

Prepare a grill for medium heat; lightly oil grate with vegetable oil. Pat one 2¾–3-lb. whole skin-on side salmon dry with paper towels, then place, skin side down, on a paper-towel-lined baking sheet. (You want to catch any excess oil when you brush the salmon, as it can cause flare-ups that will char the skin faster than the flesh can cook.) Carefully brush 1–2 Tbsp. extra-virgin olive oil, depending on the size of the fish (err on the side of less oil), over flesh side of fish; season generously with kosher salt.

Step 2

Place salmon on grate, skin side down, and cover. Grill, undisturbed, until skin is lightly charred and crisp and flesh is opaque, 20–23 minutes. (To check for doneness, slide a butter knife into the thickest part of the fish, pull it out, and hold a flat side to the back of your hand; it should be very warm). Using 2 spatulas, slide fish onto a platter. Increase grill heat to medium-high.

Step 3

While the salmon is grilling, mix together 1 large jalapeño, ribs and seeds removed, finely chopped, 3 garlic cloves, finely grated, 1 cup coarsely chopped parsley, ¾ cup coarsely chopped unsalted roasted almonds, ¼ cup fresh lemon juice, ½ tsp. ground cumin, and ⅓ cup extra-virgin olive oil in a large bowl. Season almond mixture generously with salt and freshly ground pepper.

Step 4

Place 4 poblano chiles, halved, ribs and seeds removed, in a medium bowl and drizzle with extra-virgin olive oil; turn to coat. Arrange, skin side down, on grate and cover. Grill until well charred, 8–10 minutes. Let peppers cool slightly.

Step 5

Drizzle cut sides of 1 lemon, halved, with extra-virgin olive oil. Grill, cut side down, until lightly charred, about 2 minutes.

Step 6

Rub off charred skin from chiles; discard. Coarsely chop flesh; stir into almond mixture; spoon romesco over salmon. Serve with lemon for squeezing over.
